BUSY NATION TO PAUSE ON FATHER'S BIRTHDAY

While U.S. and Russian satellites orbit around in outer space and world powers talk of disarmament as the only deterrent to war, the U.S. will pause Saturday in honor of George Washington, general, patriot, statesman and first president of our country.

Here in Lincoln, government offices and banks will be closed in observance of the national holiday. There will be no mail delivery, the U. S. Post Office has announced.

Lancaster County Court House and Lincoln city hall offices will be closed. The Nebraska Supreme Court, the only Capitol office normally open on Saturday, will remain open until noon.

Rhodes Gets 5 Years In Spying Conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Army court-martial convicted M. Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes of conspiring to spy for Russia Friday and sentenced him to five years imprisonment at hard labor.

Rhodes also was sentenced to a dishonorable discharge from the Army, which he has served for 15 years, and to forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

Rhodes received the sentence, as he had the verdict, with outward calm. But his wife and sister broke into tears.

The five-year term compared with a possible maximum of life imprisonment. In addition to the charge of conspiracy to commit espionage, Rhodes was also convicted on a charge of falsifying a loyalty certificate. The maximum provided for this was one year in jail, plus dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay and allowances.

Both Charges

The five-year sentence imposed by the military court of 10 officers covered both charges.

Before he left in custody of a military policeman, Rhodes said at first he had no comment on whether he would continue the legal fight. But then he thought a minute and said "I intend to fight."

Mrs. Rhodes, still in tears, said she had no comment. With her in the court room was Rhodes' sister, Mrs. Arlene Brown of Radium, Colo.

The sergeant turned to his chief counsel, Lt. Col. John F. Hummel, and remarked: "I certainly appreciate everything you have done for me."

Stands Erect

Rhodes, a native of Oilton, Okla., whose home is in Eatonville, N.H., stood erect to hear the verdict. Then he slumped in his chair. His slender, brunette wife, Ola, who stood by him through the trial and testified in his behalf, wept.

The court required 4½ hours to reach its verdict.

Before sentence was passed, Rhodes' chief defense counsel, Col. Hummel, asked the court-martial to consider that the sergeant had been a good soldier. He reviewed briefly the sergeant's military record, which includes battle decorations and citations for efficiency.

The verdict and sentence go automatically to Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten, commander of the military district of Washington, for review. He can approve the verdict and sentence, throw out the verdict, or reduce the sentence.

Rudy looked at the money and then—well, he hated to do it, but he had to tell Mrs. Schreiner it was Confederate money from Civil War days, worthless for a long time now.

Antitrust Case Filed On RCA

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal grand jury Friday indicted the Radio Corp. of America on charges of monopolizing the electronics equipment field. The criminal accusation was brought under anti-trust laws.

The jury claimed that RCA controls more than 10,000 patents covering radio and television equipment and also electronic devices used in radar and guided missiles. Every domestic manufacturer in those fields, the indictment said, is compelled to get a license from RCA.

The complaint further alleged that RCA worked out deals with foreign manufacturers not to compete in each other's home territories, and set up similar deals with such big American firms as American Telephone and Telegraph, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric.

The four-count indictment carries a maximum $200,000 fine if sustained. More than 25 leading electronics manufacturers throughout the world were named co-conspirators, but not defendants.

The criminal indictment follows the general lines of a civil suit filed more than three years ago and still pending.

Democrats Whip Up Ike Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats whipped up an attack Friday on what they called President Eisenhower's "Hoover-like approach" to unemployment and other recession problems.

With former President Truman assailing Eisenhower in two speeches elsewhere in Washington, the Democratic National Committee unanimously adopted a resolution condemning what it called the administration's delay in moving to combat "the depression now gripping the country."

"We condemn the Hoover-like approach of the President to this problem," the resolution said. "It is a disgrace to a free society to follow a policy which tells the five million involuntary recruits in the Eisenhower-Nixon Army of the unemployed to wait six months and things may be better—and that prosperity is just around the corner."

Truman, warming up for a "give 'em hell" speech at a party rally here Saturday night, unlimbered several shafts at Eisenhower in two appearances.

No Room

The Democratic former President told a luncheon of the Reserve Officers Assn. there isn't room in the Defense Department for rivalry which permits the individual armed services to "cut each other's throats."

"They'll co-operate to a certain extent when they have a commander in chief who will make them do it," he said.

Truman told the Electric Consumers Information Committee (ECIC) that he could talk for hours "about the things that haven't been done" by his GOP successor in the White House.

In anticipation of a "give 'em hell" speech Truman has scheduled here Saturday night, the Senate's top Republican leaders fired a critical "public memorandum" at the former President.

Sens. Knowland of California, Bridges of New Hampshire, Dirksen of Illinois and Saltonstall of Massachusetts asked Truman what he could say on civil rights that "will make pleasant listening to both Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) and Gov. Orval Faubus" of Arkansas.

JUDGE RULES ALL NOT FAIR IN LOVE-WAR

A 22-year-old airman explained to County Judge Herbert A. Ronin that when he threatened his wife Thursday night with a pair of scissors he was "just trying to show her I really loved her."

"I guess I used the wrong way," the defendant added.

Judge Ronin agreed, and fined the man—who had pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace—$25 and ordered him to furnish a $200 peace bond for six months.

The defendant's wife told Judge Ronin that she "doesn't want any trouble. I just want a divorce."

'Cheap Politician' Admits Wire-Pull

... Sought FCC Post For Mack

WASHINGTON (AP) — A self-styled "cheap politician"—Democratic national committeeman Jerry W. Carter—testified Friday he pulled all the wires he could to get Richard A. Mack appointed to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

And the 70-year-old Carter said that when Mack got the job he tried to tell Mack what stand to take in a row over who was to get the license for Miami's Channel 10, one of the nation's most valuable television properties.

As it turned out, Mack disregarded the advice and voted with the FCC majority. The result was that the license went to a National Airlines subsidiary and not to Carter's friend A. Frank Katzentine.

Carter's testimony, crackling with cracker-barrel wit and shot through with astonishing frankness, frequently reduced a hearing of the House subcommittee on legislative oversight to helpless, side-splitting laughter.

Most Tragically

But there was a grim undertone to the merriment.

Subcommittee chairman Harris (D-Ark.) told Carter his testimony pointed up "one of the most tragic examples of undue influence and high pressure tactics" in the history of any federal regulatory commission.

Harris and other committeemen have indicated they felt there was terrific pressure both in behalf of Katzentine and the successful applicant.

"I think it is one of the most disgraceful things that has ever been called to my attention," Harris said.

Carter is a smallish, plump man with thin white hair. Facially, with a beaklike nose, compressed lips and outthrust chin, he bears a marked resemblance to Harry S. Truman. But he spoke of himself in terms the former President would never use.

Rurals Oppose Sales Tax On Cities' Power

... Resolutions Wind Up 3-Day Meet

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska rural power leaders are opposing any constitutional amendment for a five per cent sales tax on electricity sold within municipalities by public power districts.

This key resolution and others were adopted by Nebraska Rural Electric Association delegates in the Friday windup of a three-day convention in Lincoln.

It was aimed at referendum petitions now being circulated by both Consumers and Omaha Public Power Districts.

This tax on retail electric sales is proposed as a substitute for "frozen" in-lieu-of-tax payments now made to incorporate towns and cities.

The Resolution

The Association voiced strong opposition to the proposed sales tax amendment. It said:

"Taxation of the revenue of one state subdivision by another is contrary to established concepts of government and public ownership."

"Revenue of a public power district above operating expenses is dedicated to debt retirement and/or lower rates to customers."

"It is an attempt to conceal a consumers tax upon an essential commodity that has been specifically exempted, rather than singled out, in past sales tax proposals."

"Under present tax laws, revenues of one political subdivision are not taken to support another. 'Discriminatory'."

"The proposed tax levy only for benefit of incorporated towns is discriminatory to all other political subdivisions, such as county government, school districts, and road districts."

"The proposal is 'an ill-conceived expedient to win favor in the towns served' and a poor substitute for the present legal directives to lower rates if there is an excess of revenue."

Lincoln's recently-passed occupation tax on Consumers, based on gross electric sales, is currently undergoing "friendly" litigation in a court test of its constitutionality. Tax funds are currently being paid in escrow pending court decision.

Backs Power Line Loan

In other action, the Association supported a Rural Electrification Administration loan for construction of the 230-KV line from Fort Randall, S.D., into Nebraska.

But it called for loan provisions whereby a Congressional appropriation could return to the Bureau of Reclamation which "should rightfully construct and own this line," as are similar lines in other reclamation states.

Several resolutions were directed at the Nebraska congressional delegation and called for:

Miller To Demand For New Program To Ike

MIDWESTERN FARM VOTE FEARED

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bloc of House Republicans, rebuffed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson in their demands for a new farm policy, threatened Friday to plow him under.

"Benson should resign," Rep. Jensen (R-Ia) declared a few minutes after the secretary announced he had no intention of abandoning his program of lower price supports.

Immediate arrangements were made to go over Benson's head to President Eisenhower. The bloc contends the administration's farm policy must be changed if Republicans are to win the November elections.

Rep. Miller (R-Neb.) announced he would seek an appointment with the President as soon as possible for five or six GOP House members.

If Benson remains in office, Miller asserted, it will mean the loss of 20 to 25 Republican House seats in the Midwest. "He's the best weapon the Democrats have," Miller said.

Laid On Line

Miller and Rep. Judd (R-Minn.) laid it on the line at a conference in Benson's office Friday morning. Miller said they didn't ask for the secretary's resignation at that time, adding:

"We left it up to him after weighing all the pros and cons." (Rep. Judd was born in Rising City, Neb., and is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.)

While Judd acted as one of the emissaries, he said that personally he felt Benson has been "right in his policy."

"We reported as instructed on the agricultural and political situation in the midwestern corn belt as these congressmen see it," Judd told newsmen.

"They are profoundly disturbed . . . a lot of them felt he ought to resign . . . there's been a sag in Republican support in the Midwest—there's no question about it."

Benson, who has received stone-wall support from Eisenhower in his previous fights with Congress, promptly issued a statement saying he was convinced the American people want programs "based on sound principles in agriculture."

"Continue To Fight"

"And for that reason I shall continue to fight for what I feel to be right," he declared.

As a Republican and a cabinet member, Benson added, he is "naturally interested and concerned in the political fortunes of those who work with this administration in attempting to give the American people the best government possible."

"But concern for political fortunes of individuals cannot transcend the very function of government, which is to protect and to help its citizens," he added.

Benson's attitude infuriated some of the corn belt congressmen.

Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis.) told a reporter there was "no question about it," that the group would go over Benson's head to the President.

"Next Step"

Miller, chairman of the protesting bloc, agreed that that would be "the logical next step."

The new revolt against the administration's farm policies broke out Thursday at a closed meeting of more than 30 GOP House members from midwestern districts.

Dissatisfaction is centered on the administration's drive for authority to set lower price supports for major crops. Under the heaviest attack lately has been Benson's order to reduce price supports for dairy products to 75 per cent of parity — the lowest legal minimum—on April 1.

Politicos Uncertain Of Result

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Republican and Democratic state chairmen were uncertain Friday night as to what might be the result of a possible conference on agrarian problems and policy between President Eisenhower and Republican House farm belt members, including Rep. A. L. Miller of Nebraska.

Both indicated, however, that they thought it worth the effort. There the agreement ends.

Here's what the chairmen told The Star:

Willard Townsend of Lincoln, Democrat: "It's too bad that those who work with legislation and who are supposed to reflect the opinions of their constituents have taken so long to come to this point of view (that a new farm policy is needed)."

"The time has gone by for the Republican Party to regain the confidence of farmers and Nebraska citizenry who recognize the essential place the farm economy plays in the total economy of this state."

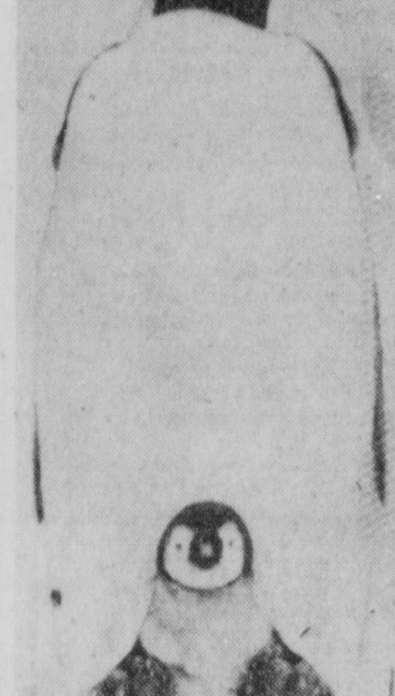

"Doc Miller certainly is right when he says it will cost the Republicans 25 seats in the House."

Richard E. Spels of Grand Island, Republican: "I'm sure that Midwest Republican congressmen who are closest to the farmer and his needs would be best equipped by this association and general knowledge to present something in a way of a farm program which might be a solution to the price squeeze."

"We hope it will be given careful consideration as a step toward solving farm problems."

"Here in Nebraska it is certainly a problem which reflects on the whole economy."

Miller said Friday he will seek an appointment with the President as soon as possible so that Midwest Republicans may present their farm views to the chief executive.

Harriman Asks 'Bold Action'

Road-Building Speedup Plan Is Proposed

... To Check Recession

WASHINGTON (INS)—New York Gov. Averell Harriman urged the Eisenhower administration Friday to "face the facts" about the business recession and take "bold action" to reverse it.

Calling for an acceleration and expansion of the multi-billion dollar highway-construction program, Harriman said America cannot afford "idle plants, idle facilities, and idle manpower."

Harriman told the Senate roads subcommittee that the Eisenhower tight-money policy has cut back home building, discouraged school construction and hurt small business in his state.

Wants No Hush-Hush

He declared: "These are things that are happening and have been happening and I believe you can't sweep the facts under the rug."

The Democratic governor said he does not think the U.S. economy is "on the verge of great difficulties," but recommended that "information about the recession be brought out into the open" in an effort to end dangerous rumors about unemployment and business failures.

Subcommittee Chairman Gore (D-Tenn.) agreed with Harriman on the need for action. He said: "One of the most destructive elements is the lack of forthright action by the government when these dangers appear."

Warns Against Slowdown

Earlier, spokesmen for 7,000 highway contractors and 6,000 county officials warned that the nation's economy, safety and defenses will suffer if the multi-billion dollar road-building program is not speeded up.

Fred W. Heldenfels Jr., of Corpus Christi, Tex., president of the Associated General Contractors of America, said the nation's highway builders now have the capacity to handle "at least twice their current volume of work."

Heldenfels told the Senate subcommittee his group is concerned about reports that the 13-year road-building schedule may be extended to 25 years.

He stated: "We feel . . . that the system is too closely allied with the national defense, the security of the country and traffic safety, to permit any stretch-out of the schedule established by Congress in 1936."

Atomic Ban Could Increase Threat Of War, Spaak Says

PARIS (INS)—NATO Secretary General Paul Henry Spaak said the banning of atomic weapons would increase the danger of World War III.

The area is in northwest Turkey, 23 miles northeast of Izmir. Heavy rains sent the waters in the auxiliary basin of the Gediz River smashing through the wall.

No loss of life was reported but damage was said to be heavy.

Crash Program On Illiteracy Needed In Mideast—NU Prof

One long-range solution to the tense political situation in the Middle East, Dr. A. T. Anderson said, is a crash program on illiteracy.

He said problems in the Middle East are 3,000 years old and there is no immediate answer. And, he said, "only when men and women can have access to information other than official hand-outs will they be able to make intelligent judgments."

The principal difficulty, Dr. Anderson told a meeting of the Jane Jefferson Women's Club Friday night, is that Americans do not understand the culture of the Arabs.

He characterized Americans as "the most zealous missionaries of all peoples."

Not Same Light
"We want others to have the good things of life," he said, "but we must understand what we think good may not be seen in the same light in other cultures."

Americans are shocked to hear that Arabs who fled Israel are living on 10 cents per day. That is the normal standard of living there, he said.

"We can't raise the Arab's standard of living by insisting he eat steak," he said, "but we can give him a chance to find his own answers through literature."

America is involved in the Middle East militarily through the Truman Doctrine, diplomatically through NATO alliances with Greece and Turkey, and economically through self-help plans, he noted.

The University of Nebraska professor, who returned from a two-year stay in Turkey last September, sees Turkey and other Western Mideast countries as the "last outposts of the free world," and valuable oil centers.

The proposal as outlined by school men is to establish a center at which students in the area have an opportunity to attend up to two years of college while remaining close to home—in short a junior college set-up.

No Transfer Needed
Students would be enrollees of the University and no transfer would be needed if they elected to continue their education in Lincoln. The city would provide the physical facilities with the University providing the faculty.

In a preliminary discussion, University and North Platte school officials estimated that if the school is opened this fall it might draw from 100 to 150 students enrolled in freshman university courses, requiring about five class rooms which North Platte would have to provide outside the public schools, now crowded. Cost of providing the extra classrooms is estimated at around $10,000.

University officials in Lincoln Friday night verified that preliminary discussions have been held on the establishment of an extension center at North Platte, but emphasized that the program is still in the planning stage.

Kidnaper Lamarca Wins His 5th Stay
NEW YORK (INS)—Kidnap-killer Angelo Lamarca won his fifth stay of execution Friday in Federal District Court. He was to have gone to the electric chair next Thursday for the murder of baby Peter Weinberger.

Judge Edward J. Dimock made the stay indefinite. But he asked for prompt action by state courts in reviewing Lamarca's latest plea to reverse his death sentence.

A new state court review of the case, however, is expected to take weeks if not months. Then, if Lamarca is turned down, a new execution date would have to be set.

Lamarca had sought his freedom from Judge Dimock on grounds that a Long Island jury was unable to try him fairly because of widespread publicity in the case. He called this a violation of his constitutional rights.

Rhee Is Told To Bargain For Release

... OF AIRLINER

TOKYO (INS)—Communist North Korea said Friday the crew and passengers of a captured airliner will be allowed to return if President Syngman Rhee of South Korea will negotiate for their release.

The broadcast from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang thus put the pressure on the aged South Korean president who has steadfastly refused to recognize the Red regime or negotiate with it.

The Communists have claimed the Korean National airliner (KNA) with its two U.S. pilots and 32 other persons flew voluntarily to North Korea Sunday. KNA said Red agents aboard the plane kidnapped it.

The Pyongyang broadcast admitted that "there are some who desire to return."

Drunk Boys Are Chased From School

AUBURN, Kan. (INS)—A group of 10 to 12 teenagers, some armed with brass knuckles and apparently intoxicated, burst into Auburn High School Friday, disrupted classes and threatened violence until driven off by adults.

Principal Ray Nichols said the invaders came to the school in a truck and an automobile. They climbed through windows, dashed through halls and classrooms and threatened several persons with beer bottles, he said.

Nichols said they were in the building probably five minutes before he got them outside.

"They cussed and tore around outside for a while, then took off," Nichols said. An unnamed citizen fired a shotgun in the air and sped the disturbers on their way.

Before going to the school, the gang had stopped at a filling station in this small town, 14 miles south of Topeka, and threatened the operator, Lloyd Cole.

Cole said he drove them from his place by threatening them with tire irons and threatening to go in to action.

Sir Winston's doctors let optimism creep into their communique for the first time, saying: "There is very definite improvement in Sir Winston Churchill's condition. There are signs that the pneumonia is resolving. After a good night he is more comfortable and his progress is so far satisfactory."

FUEL ADDED TO CUSHMAN ZONING PETITION DRIVE
The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and labor union leaders have thrown more wood on the fire in their campaign urging City Council approval of rezoning of a 109-acre southeast Lincoln tract for use as a Cushman Motor Works industrial site.

Petitions are still being mailed to each of the approximately 3,300 members of the Chamber, Women's Division and Junior Chamber of Commerce, officials said. Heads of 19 business and service groups have also been written, they said, urging that they make petitions available at their next meeting.

Petitions are to be returned to the Chamber offices by March 5. The City Council meeting on the matter is March 10.

The Chamber said it had counted 1,272 signatures Friday. Sixteen Lincoln business firms out of 155 originally contacted have completed passing the petitions to employees who indicated a desire to sign, an official said.

67 Favorable
Sixty-seven have agreed to provide petitions for their employees. Only two have refused thus far, both because of general policy reasons, the official noted.

Latest count from union sources totaled about 5,000 signatures, a spokesman said. The source estimated that labor union members would acquire some 20,000 favorable signatures before the deadline.

Union officials said that people are still coming after petitions. "We have had several phone calls from people requesting petitions for their neighborhoods," he added.

"The business people and stores we have contacted," the union official said, "have responded favorably to the fullest extent."

Sarle, Chicago, vice president of the Northern Trust Co., will speak on government bonds.

Women's activities include a style show, discussions and workshops.

Milk Output Per Cow Sets New Record
Milk production in Nebraska dropped slightly last year despite the fact average output per cow set a record high, the state-federal division of agricultural statistics reported Friday. Fewer cows made the difference.

Production was estimated at 2,252,000,000 pounds of milk in 1957, down nine million pounds from the previous year's 2,261,000,000 pounds, and about 24 million pounds or 1 per cent under the 1946-55 average.

Average production per cow in 1957 was estimated at 5,560 pounds, compared with 5,410 in 1956 and an average of 4,922.

The number of milk cows has been declining steadily since February, 1954. The 1957 cow population averaged 405,000 head, compared with 418,000 in 1956 and a 10-year average of 464,000.

For the nation as a whole, milk production last year achieved a record high of some 126 billion pounds.

Light Seen In Search For Plane
HALIFAX (INS)—The search for a missing U. S. Navy plane with 22 men aboard was intensified Friday after lights were reported sighted in the Atlantic near where it disappeared.

Fifty planes criss-crossed the area 600 miles east of Newfoundland.

The U. S. Coast Guard cutter Yakutat said it had received a report a red flare was seen about 400 miles north of the plane's last position.

Early Friday a U. S. Air Force plane reported seeing small lights on the surface of the ocean about 150 miles from where the flare was reported sighted.

Portuguese, Canadian and U. S. aircraft joined in the search. The U. S. aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, a cruiser and 16 destroyers also took part. The carrier sent 17 planes into the hunt.

The four-engine Super Constellation disappeared Thursday on a radar patrol flight from Argentina, Nfld., to the Azores. Its last reported position was about 110 miles west of Corvo Island in the Azores.

The plane was said to have turned back toward Argentina for an unexplained reason. It was used as part of the Atlantic defense radar screen.

NU Officials Urge District Reroute Flood Improvements
Three University of Nebraska officials have requested that Sanitary District 1 reroute proposed flood improvements on Dead Man's Run.

Appearing before the District Friday were Carl A. Donaldson, director of purchase; Charles Fowler, University director of buildings and ground; and David McGill, associate agronomist.

The trio asked that the District move the proposed Dead Man's channel route which now starts at about 33rd and Madison and winds southeast to 48th and Colby.

The proposed University route starts at 31st and Huntington and continues straight east on Huntington to 42nd where the channel would then jog southeast to 48th and Leighton.

To Study Proposal
Ralph Marlette, District engineer has been authorized to study the new proposal and report back to the District.

Donaldson said the University wanted to move the channel farther north so considerable University-owned land wouldn't be broken up.

In other business, Marlette informed the District that lining on

Indonesian Bombs Sumatra
PADANG, Sumatra (INS)—Indonesian warplanes Friday struck the first blow against the rebel government in Sumatra, a spokesman announced.

The rebel spokesman said two B-25 bombers machinegunned and dropped seven bombs on a bridge at Pamanan, a coastal town 47 miles south of here.

He said damage was slight and there were no casualties although villagers were going to a nearby mosque for prayers on Indonesia's Moslem Sunday. The Padang Radio previously had said two persons were wounded.

An Indonesian Catalina flying boat also made a landing on Lake Singkarak, north of here, apparently in another practice for possible troop landings, the spokesman said.

Demand Spurred
The reported attack came an hour after President Sukarno spurned a rebel demand for the ouster of the cabinet of Premier Djauanda. He called for action to crush the rival Padang government.

Despite the apparent striking of a first blow both sides were predicting that the struggle would be settled by political and economic weapons. Rebel leaders previously have claimed that the use of force by the government would bring about a general revolution among government supporters.

In accepting Sukarno's orders to act against the rebels, Premier Djauanda said he could not guarantee "there will be no shooting" since it would be necessary to use the Army, Navy and Air Force to carry out a blockade.

Navy Said Ready For Third Try At Putting Vanguard Satellite Into Orbit

... Working At Record Breaking Pace

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Navy, working at a record-breaking pace, was reported ready Friday for a third attempt to blast the trouble-plagued Vanguard satellite rocket into outer space sometime next week.

The Army meanwhile is preparing to fire a second Jupiter C carrying a virtual twin of the Explorer satellite that is already circling the earth. The second Army launching could follow the new Navy attempt by only a few days. Both of the satellite rockets have been erected on nearby platforms at Florida's Cape Canaveral missile center, where the Army successfully launched the Explorer Jan. 31 and the second Vanguard jacked into the sea after 37 seconds of flight Feb. 5.

According to congressional and military sources in Washington, the third Vanguard firing will take place only three weeks after the Feb. 5 failure, constituting a new time record for the erection and preliminary testing of the complicated three-stage rocket.

Two months of preliminaries were necessary after the first Vanguard blew up last Dec. 6 before another firing could be conducted. The 72-foot rocket has never before been prepared for test launching in less than five or six weeks. The present rocket, one of eleven built for the Navy's $110,000,000 Project Vanguard, will carry a 6.4-inch test satellite sphere equipped only with radio. The Navy is scheduled to attempt a launching of a 20-inch, full-scale artificial "moon" sometime in March.

Later in the year, the Cape Canaveral center with its many missile towers may be the scene of U.S. attempts now under consideration either to send a rocket to the moon or place a satellite in orbit around the moon.

Pentagon experts say it would be easier to create a satellite that would circle the earth and the moon — in a path that would form a figure "8" — than to hit the moon with a device that could be detected by telescope from the earth.

Actually hitting the moon requires much more careful timing than placing an object within the moon's gravitational field. The Army's Jupiter C rocket has been declared capable of propelling an object either to or around the moon.

The "payload" that the Jupiter C could send to the moon, however, would be small — much smaller than the 30.18 pound Explorer. As a result, attempts to hit or circle the moon may be delayed until larger rockets such as the Air Force's 1,500-mile Thor are ready for space experiments.

'Trainable' Children 'Not Schools Duty'

The Attorney General held that a school district is not obligated in any way for the education of a so-called "trainable" child — one whose IQ ranges between 30 and 50.

The opinion was requested by State Commissioner of Education Freeman Decker who said he made it as the result of a specific problem in a particular school district.

Decker said he had ruled that a school district was not obligated to provide education for such a child and that his ruling had been challenged and he therefore asked for an attorney general's ruling on the matter.

The opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General Gerald Vitmas, stated that the Legislature has maintained that compulsory education laws "do not apply to those children who are mentally incapacitated for the work done in the regular schools" and that a "trainable" child "cannot benefit from regular school attendance."

Therefore, the opinion continued, a local school district is not obligated "in any way for the education or training of such a child."

The opinion also stated the last session of the Legislature authorized the Board of Control to establish one or more approved residential schools for mentally retarded children, a category which includes the so-called "trainable" child.

Board of Control Chairman Mrs. Catherine Martin has requested an attorney general's opinion on the legality of using the $80,000 appropriated for construction of a state school for mentally retarded children, to rent and renovate a building for the proposed institution.

The Board is now collecting statistics to determine where the majority of the state's mentally retarded children reside. The information might possibly be used to determine the location of the proposed school.

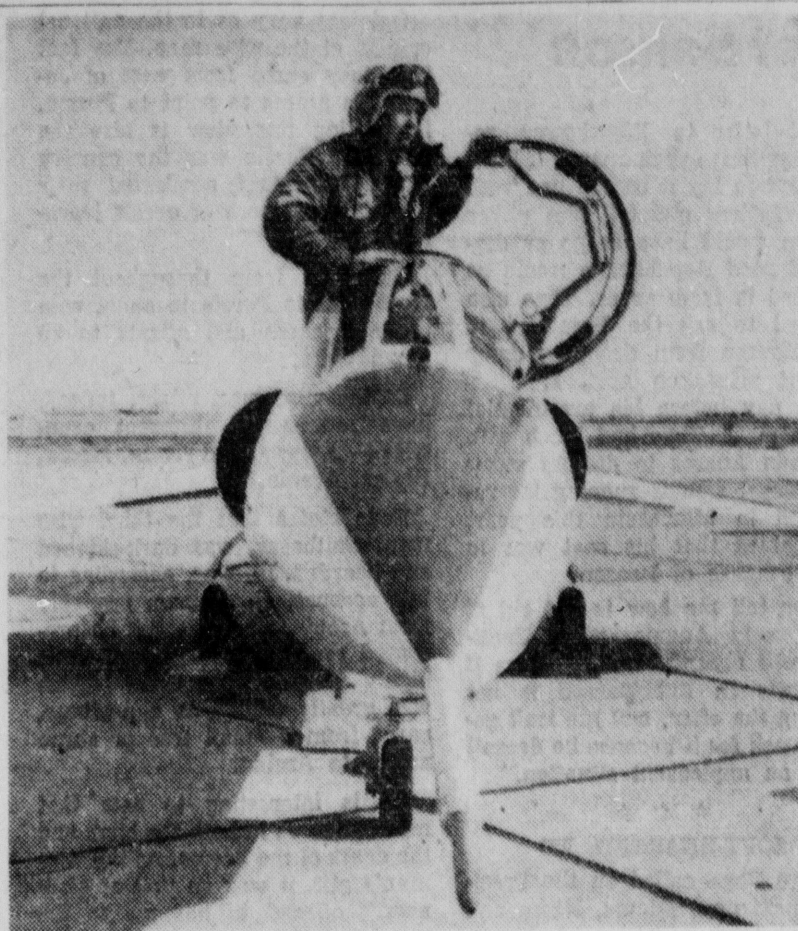

JUDGES ASSN. INCORPORATES

The Nebraska District Court Judges Assn., organized to coordinate the activities of all state probation officers, filed articles of association with the secretary of state.

The association, created under terms of LB 568, passed by the last session of the legislature to create a state-wide system of probation officers, will also encourage an interest in the economic, social and judicial aspects of justice in Nebraska.

The following judicial districts have already appointed district probation officers: Dist. Two, William H. Eynon of Wayne; Dist. Three, James A. Uhlemann of Columbus; Dist. Four, Harry S. Stevenson of Omaha; Dist. Five, Jack Ryder of Nebraska City; Dist. Six, William Paul Beave of Lincoln; Dist. Seven, Henry W. Homes of Beatrice, and Dist. 10, Duane Collins of Kimball.

Probation officers for districts one, eight and nine have not been registered with the secretary of state.

'MISSILE WITH MAN'

and were put through their paces for the benefit of high Air Force and Lockheed officers. The plane, distinguished by its long fuselage and stubby wings, is called, by pilots, "a guided missile with a man." (AP Wirephoto.)

Tax Cut No Bonanza

Election-conscious officials might be excused for being unable to refrain from talking about tax cuts on the national level. But when they hold out a tax cut as a cure-all for any business recession, they are just kidding the people.

No one would oppose a tax cut, such as it were the result of better operation and a slackening of need for money. But it is foolhardy to talk about cutting taxes for what it would accomplish in the face of mounting needs in many directions.

What would a tax cut do for the average person? Perhaps a cut would put another $1 or $2 in the weekly pay check. Some taxpayers would get nothing out of a cut and others would get more but few would get enough to make any difference in their daily lives. Little can be done these days even on a credit or long-term basis with $2 a week. Such a tax cut and increase in individual income would send few people into the market for cars, homes, appliances, etc.

Granted, it is better for taxes to go down, even a little bit, than up but it can be awfully false economy. If taxes are cut, it would mean a hike in the national debt and more government borrowing. The government is already spending a substantial amount each year in interest and for this the taxpayers get no benefit. The taxpayer is likely to pay more in the future for interest alone than what he might save with a tax cut now. If the current recession continues and is as serious as some people think it is, it will take a lot more than an individually insignificant tax cut to cure it.

Running Scared

There was a note of encouragement for anxious Midwest agricultural states in this week's closed door Washington session in which some 30 western House Republicans called in National GOP Chairman Meade Alcorn to see what could be done to undo what has been done by the Eisenhower administration's farm program as administered by Secretary Benson.

It is no secret that farm state Republican congressmen, including Nebraskans, are getting jumpy. The mounting losses of the Republican party in its once great farming stronghold can no longer be waved aside.

This belated effort to bring forth some sort of a constructive answer to agricultural hardship is not without its dour connotations. One of them is the suspicion that the 30 congressmen are more greatly concerned over their re-election than they were about bailing out their hard-pressed constituents. They endured the Benson strictures with fortitude from 1953 to 1958 and most of them joyously rode the Eisenhower bandwagon into office. Their concern now has more of the earmarks of passengers whose car has run out of gas. They want to be pushed to the nearest filling station.

Another connotation is that Secretary Benson is only the personification of a political philosophy as it applies to agriculture. Unloading him might satisfy those who like to think of problems in terms of a personal villain, but it would be an act of form not of essence. No evidence has yet been given that the GOP has had a change of heart.

But the situation is encouraging. It forecasts some alleviations and concessions as expedients, and agriculture at this juncture could use a few, whatever the source.

Victim Of Distortion

While Congress labors with the demands of a heavier defense budget and the public runs a probing finger into its pocketbook to see what coins will be left after taxes, it is not hard to find any number of drawing room statesmen inveighing against "these foreign aid programs."

There is surprising little sentiment for what in 1949 was advocated as the Point Four program. It was really a proposal that the United States appropriate what it would take to build up peaceful civilian economies in the distressed or backward parts of the world—a matter of education, resources development, technical aid, health service, food, all combining for a better standard of living. It was a gentle and friendly program albeit not without the connotations of good business, which was simply this: If you put people in the way of knowing and earning they will come into the world market to absorb an increasing amount of goods the advanced nations can now make in such abundance but for which it cannot find sufficient buyers.

Actually this nation never did more than a bare minimum in the field of foreign aid, although the opinion persists that this country is throwing its precious wealth about the world with a madman's abandon. It is honestly believed by many that a great portion of our "oppressive" taxes would vanish if we could stop "this giveaway."

The true fact is that this country spends precious little on human uplift, and foreign aid is and always has been a term to cover mainly national defense and foreign military aid. It is also true that if we abandoned peaceful foreign aid it would hardly make a difference in our tax bill.

At this moment the Congress is working on a budget that in 1959 is expected to provide $39.8 billion for defense, $2.2 billion for foreign military aid, $2.6 billion for atomic energy and $4 billion for stockpiling strategic materials. That adds up to $48.6 billion. Against all that the actual proposal for foreign economic aid is but $1.6 billion. We are indebted to the Des Moines Register which has provided comparative budget figures for the past five years as follows:

	(billions of dollars)
Defense	35.5	35.8	38.4	38.9	39.8
Foreign Military Aid	2.5	3.0	2.4	2.2	2.2
Atomic Energy	1.9	1.7	2.0	2.3	2.6
Stockpiling	1.0	0.6	0.5	0.6	0.4
Total Military	40.9	41.1	43.3	44.0	45.0
Foreign Aid	2.0	1.7	1.6	1.5	1.6

Editorial Of The Day GOP Slips

From The Des Moines Register
The narrow margin by which a Republican candidate won election Tuesday in Minnesota's First congressional district appears to support forecasts of dire trouble for Republican candidates for Congress in the Middle West this year.

The election was held to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of August Andresen, a Republican who had represented this district for more than 20 years. The district has not gone Democratic since 1893.

Such a record of steadfast loyalty to the Republican party makes any impressive gain by a Democratic candidate for Congress take on the appearances of a landslide trend in voter sentiment.

A similar trend in other districts would mean disaster for the Republicans in a large part of the upper midwest.

Political forecasters and the party leaders are well aware, however, that the voting pattern in one congressional district cannot be transferred to other districts with the expectation of a perfect fit.

GOP Strategists Can't Get Benson

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders have tried everything short of tar and feathers to force Secretary of Agriculture Benson to resign, but, like the man who came to dinner, he has refused to take the hint.

The trouble is that President Eisenhower won't ask for his resignation, and Benson apparently won't offer it. The President, who admires Benson's spiritual qualities, doesn't want to create an "unpleasant situation" by showing him the door.

The men around Ike, including both Vice President Dick Nixon and Assistant President Sherman Adams, are less sensitive. They have been trying their best to shove the unwanted secretary out the nearest exit.

But like the boulders of his native Rocky Mountains, Benson isn't easy to budge. He is carrying out his farm program with the zeal of a religious crusade, and looks upon those who disagree with him as men too weak to resist political temptations.

Meanwhile, here is the story of the backstage manipulations to get rid of him:

South Dakota's plump, plaintive Sen. Karl Mundt, speaking for farm-state Republicans, called on Adams last November 22 to demand Benson's removal. It was the only way, Mundt warned, to prevent a Republican calamity at the polls in 1958.

Adams, who needed no convincing, promised: "Benson will be out of the cabinet by Christmas."

NO CHRISTMAS PRESENT

But Santa Claus came and went, leaving no new secretary of agriculture in the GOP stocking.

Kansas' kindly Sen. Frank Carlson, who kept at Ike's elbow throughout the 1952 campaign and could have taken the agriculture post for himself, made repeated visits to the White House urging Benson's dismissal. Vice President Nixon was also active behind the scenes, trying to send Benson back to Utah.

Finally Sen. Ed Thye, a Minnesota chicken farmer, wrote an urgent letter to Eisenhower requesting an appointment. Thye intended to lay it on the line with the President and tell him either Benson would have to go or dozens of good Republicans would be defeated in farm areas. Thye also planned to ask the President to stop Benson from dropping dairy support prices on April 1.

The day before his presidential appointment, Thye had lunch with Sherman Adams to discuss strategy. Thye, who is running for re-election in Minnesota this year, complained that his seat was in peril because of Benson.

"You tell me how to get rid of him," said Adams. "The President will accept his resignation if he gives it. But Benson isn't making the offer, and Ike isn't going to ask for it because he doesn't want an unpleasant situation."

SOFT-HEARTED ED

When Thye called on the President next day, Adams, Nixon and several GOP senators who knew his mission crossed their fingers. The President greeted Thye with a booming: "How are you, Ed?"

"Mr. President," Thye replied, "I have a big job on my hands this fall."

"I hope you are re-elected," Ike said. "You are the kind of Republican we need. You are not too far over on the left, and you are not too far on the right."

This was the opening for Thye to bring up the Benson problem, but he suddenly got cold feet. Instead, he pulled out a set of figures and tried to prove to the President that dairy support prices should not be lowered from $3.25 to $3.00 a hundredweight on April 1.

"I don't want to hurt the farmers," promised the President. "I will give this my personal attention."

Thye left without mentioning Benson's name. Later he explained lamely to his GOP colleagues that he didn't want to drag personalities into it. Knowing the President's dislike for mixing personalities with issues, Thye decided to stick to the dairy question.

Adams Real Target Of House Inquiry

WASHINGTON — The big game in the House inquiry into the regulatory agencies is Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President. His name consistently pops up in testimony before the Harris subcommittee, and it was inevitable that it should.

The question is what the subcommittee will and can do about it. Adams refused to testify on the part he played in the Dixon-Yates power contract, pleading the doctrine of separation of powers. The Dixon-Yates inquisitor, Senator Estes Kefauver, who had no reason to spare Adams, did not press him.

At least one Washington lawyer has now drawn up a brief purporting to prove that Adams' claim to confidential and, therefore, inviolable privilege is untenable. Any layman venturing into this field can doubtless find lawyers on both sides and any quantity of learned constitutional discussion.

Yet, as a practical matter, Congress can, if it really wishes to do so, effectively spotlight Adams and his unique role over the day-to-day operations of the government, including the disposition of the presidential power of appointment. It may not be quite true to say that its rules are devised to enable Congress not to do what it does not want to do, but the remark is close enough to the actual condition as distinguished from theory.

Actually, the Harris inquiry exists because of Speaker Sam Rayburn's mounting anger and frustration over what he conceived to be the Adams technique of repeal-through-appointment of the laws creating the regulatory agencies. Control by Adams of White House patronage is an undisputed fact of life here.

Rayburn's argument, often voiced, is that "Eisenhower Democrat" is a euphemism for a conservative who would be a Republican if he didn't live in the South or have some emotional tie to the party of Jefferson. Rayburn goes on the charge that Adams has stacked the agencies with conservatives, frustrating the intent of Congress to make them truly bipartisan and also setting the fox to watch the chickens.

The speaker does not particularly blame the agency commissioners for being what they are, reasoning that if they were different, Adams would not let them have the jobs. Hence Rayburn's irritation with the ex-counsel for the subcommittee, Bernard Schwartz, began by focusing attention on the shortcomings of the commissioners.

It does not now appear that Rayburn has managed to get the inquiry on what he views as the right track, despite his undoubted influence with the new subcommittee chairman, Representative Oren Harris.

Harris himself is very much on the spot because of his own past attitudes, which are conservative and not too far away from those of Adams. He is the author of the embattled bill to free natural gas from federal regulation, and of all the 48 states, his own — Arkansas — is viewed as being most strongly under the influence of the private utilities.

For these reasons, many House members feel he is now miscast as inquisitor of the regulatory agencies. Some liberals refused to vote funds for the inquiry until after they had received assurances that Harris would not be its head.

JESUS LOVED THEM

The Third Wise Man

"And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way."
—Matthew 11: 12

Opinions vary as to the national origins of the wise men. The fact that they came from east of Jerusalem seems to point to Persia. Supporting this view is also the fact that Persia was the country where the Magi conducted their schools or centers of occult learning.

But men from throughout the East went to Persia to study with those teachers and adepts to be found there.

So the wise men might, indeed, have represented different countries — Assyria, Babylonia, Media, Persia, Arabia.

Bede states that the third wise man, Balthasar, was dark-skinned and bearded. He was, according to this account, an African, probably from Arabia, since the gift he presented to Jesus was myrrh. This highly fragrant substance, which was greatly valued as a perfume, came from a small tree or shrub native to Arabia.

It is interesting to note that myrrh figures in both the birth and the death of the Savior. As the wise man's gift, it was an "oil of gladness," offered in homage to the new-born King. As He suffered upon the cross, He was offered the same substance, mingled with wine to alleviate his pain, but He rejected it.

On their journey to Bethlehem, the Magi probably travelled a distance of slightly more than 1000 miles, a trip that required anywhere from three to nine months by camel.

They probably followed the great caravan route across the Syrian desert with its scorching winds, to the oasis of Tadmor (Palmyra), and on to Damascus, then southward until they forded the Jordan near Jericho.

After properly interpreting their dreams, however, they returned by some other and probably more circuitous route.

Scripture, unfortunately, does not tell us what became of these spiritually enlightened men of the East in the years that followed.

According to tradition, they were later baptized by the apostle Thomas. In the Cathedral at Cologne are relics said to be the remains of the wise men, which St. Helena discovered in Persia and had brought to Constantinople. They were moved to Milan, Italy, in the fifth century and from there transferred to Cologne in 1163. (Copr. 1958, Mirror Enterprise Co.)

The Future Lincoln

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The past week end clearly showed the attitude of Lincoln people. To say that they are stirred up is putting it mildly. The two big and popular questions are:

(1) Why do people have to go to such extremes as petitioning to gain an industry when we should have a planning commission and other bureaus that are supposed to be encouraging industry, not discouraging it?

(2) When and where can we sign a petition demanding a clean sweep of city governing officials? It is encouraging that people are waking up to what is happening to Lincoln. They can be fooled so long, but there comes a time when enough is enough and they rise up and demand common sense actions.

Several weeks ago this paper published a proposed view of Lincoln by the year 2000. We were shown O Street as an avenue of trees, flowers and shrubs. Perhaps the city planners have this in mind in driving out industry so the overworked workers won't tramp their flowers. How much better this scene would be if it showed busy industry with workers going in all directions to their jobs.

CITIZEN

Hruska And Labor

Scottsbluff, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In a recent address here to a gathering of the GOP faithful, Sen. Roman Hruska made the statement that he was glad to be opposed by the unions, happy to be on their blacklist, etc. Probably the senator like many of his business and farmer friends fails to realize how much the general welfare depends on a fair wage for workers and how much that fair wage depends on the unions. It is true there have been abuses in labor management. But the same is true of bank management — and business management. A senator is supposed to represent all the people, not just certain segments.

As the senator came from the populous East, He rode in a union-made car; He was sumptuously clad in union-made clothes; With a quality better by far Than those made in the days of the "Song of the Shirt"; By sweat-shop and child-labor means; But then there are many these days who forget

The horror of those sordid scenes When "a dollar a day" was considered fair wage And the hours were many and long, And men in their thirties were "showing their age" And few had the heart for a song.

In the days before workers united to gain A fair share of the fruits of their toil, There was poverty here in this Land of the Free And injustice to make men's blood boil. If it were not for the unions that Hruska condemns, These conditions would surely return And the men who fight unions so fiercely today Would quickly their value discern. As the senator speaks to the Country Club crowd, He eats from a union-made plate; If his cries against Labor continue so loud, He may meet with a union-made fate! (political retirement)

Teen-Age Garb

Belvidere, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I am writing this in regard to an article in The Star about the superintendent and other people of Crete making the boys quit wearing sideburns, duck-tails, low-worn jeans and black leather jackets.

Here is my opinion on the matter. I do not see anything wrong with sideburns, ducktails or black leather jackets! I'll admit that low-worn jeans look bad on either boys or girls. About sideburns—well, remember Mr. Rudolph Valentino? He was noted for his sideburns and nobody thought they were bad then. It seems funny that no matter what we teen-agers want to do, it is wrong. Now even our clothes and hair styles! I think that if the young person's parents don't mind his clothes, nobody else should.

Now, black leather jackets the same as any other coat costs money. If the youngsters aren't allowed to wear them, what are they going to do with them? They surely can't take them back to the store and get their money back. Probably half those who bought them were thinking about keeping warm rather than committing some crime.

I would like to see some more opinions in The Star, either agreeing or disagreeing with me.

INTERESTED MOTHER

Ode To Freedom

Omaha, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The USA has had staunch friends in England, if we except the ruling castes. Among them was the great Robert Burns. At the risk of his neck he penned this ode to our hero, George Washington. We rescued it from obscurity, filtered out the Scotch, and condensed it suitably for this column:

Thy harp, America, let me take,
Tis Liberty's bold note I would swell,
And see thousands gathering while I sing
Of your offspring, brave as free;
And in danger's hour still flaming in the van.
And to thee I turn with swimming eyes—
And a broken chain, a symbol, bring,
And dash it in the tyrant's face;
And dare him to his very beard,
And tell him he is no longer feared.

Avant, thou coward, servile, base!
That trembled at a despot's nod,
Yet crouching under the iron rod,
Canst laud the arm which struck the insulting blow.
At an hour which saw the generous English name
Linked with such deeds of everlasting shame,
Where is man's godlike form?
Where is that brow erect and bold?
Where has that soul of freedom fled?
Arouse, ye Britons! . . . ye freeborn.

Curb Needs Jacking

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I live on the north side of town near 20th and J Streets. I pay sewer taxes just like other people. There are four sewers at the corner. About 20 feet from the sewers, the curb has dropped down and the water will stand there. We have called place after place asking to have the curb jacked up but all we get is the buck passed to this one and that one. This has been going on for about three years.

There is just one more thing. I wish someone could tell me when this is going to happen, and tell me a day or two ahead of time when I am going to have a basement full of water. I lose a lot of clothing and other things each year and my gas furnace and washing machine and other standard equipment don't last very long after standing in seven to eight feet of water and mud.

Senators Eye Proposed New Farm Grain Surplus Elimination Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators showed friendly interest Friday in a new two-step farm program aimed at getting rid of huge government stocks of surplus corn, grain sorghums and other feed grains.

Corn and other producers of feed grain first would be encouraged under the program to cut back production voluntarily. They would be offered liberal payments "in kind" from existing government stocks.

Once these huge stocks were reduced to normal carryover levels, a mandatory cutback in feed grain acreage would be required on every farm if the operator wanted to share in government price supports.

The new program was developed by farm leaders under auspices of the National Conference of Commodity Organizations.

Although at first skeptical of the proposals before they were explained in detail, Chairman Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee later urged that the ideas be put into "an actual bill immediately."

Refresh

"This is refreshing," Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) commented. "It has some ideas that may work out."

Sen. Young (R-ND) agreed.

Walter W. Goeppinger of Boone, Ia., president of the National Corn Growers Assn., backed up by farmers from several other major crop sections, outlined details of the proposal.

Goeppinger said leaders from dairy, livestock, cotton and other areas were supporting the proposals worked out at conferences of farm leaders in Omaha and Kansas City.

The new proposals would junk existing acreage allotments and price supports for corn and start fresh with the 100 million acres now planted to corn and grain sorghum.

Any grower of these crops could voluntarily cut back his base plantings from 10 to 100 per cent and receive in return payments in kind from government surpluses ranging from 60 per cent to 90 per cent of his average production.

Base Acreage

His price supports on new crops from the cutback acreage would rise or fall in relation to the amount of base acreage he underplanted.

A farmer who cut back only 10 per cent of his base would get only 60 per cent of his past five-year average production as a rental payment and only 60 per cent of parity on his new crop.

A farmer who underplanted 40 per cent or more of his corn-sorghum base would get 90 per cent of his past production on the unused acres and a support at 90 per cent of parity.

Initially, Ellender said, Uncle Sam would "really have to shell out on this." He estimated first-year costs at more than one billion bushels of corn, in which the government already has invested some 1½ billion dollars.

Goeppinger and other farm witnesses disagreed, saying first year costs would range around 500 million bushels of corn and other feed grains.

10% Cutback

Once corn and other feed grain surpluses were reduced, they said, every farm would be required to make a 10 per cent cutback in cropland or pasture production in order to obtain price supports. This would be conditioned upon approval of the proposal by a nationwide referendum of farmers.

A new proposal for computing government price support levels on corn and other basic crops was urged by Roger Fleming, appearing for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Fleming said the parity ration in most farm legislation was discredited and subject to abuse.

Instead he urged that farm supports be 10 per cent below the market average of a commodity for the most recent three years.

Parity is a computed price intended to give farmers a fair return on their investment.

Ellender said the new price support proposal is just another effort to drive down farm prices.

'REWARD IS NEBRASKA'S DECISION'

... Douglas Chief Says

DOUGLAS, Wyo. (AP) — Douglas Police Chief Robert Ainslie, who had a hand in capturing mass killer Charlie Starkweather, said Friday he will let Nebraska officials decide if he should share in the $2,929 reward money.

Ainslie and Converse County Sheriff Earl Heflin chased the escaping Starkweather and made the final capture near Douglas after Heflin fired several shots at the fleeing vehicle.

"If they want to give me part of the reward, fine... otherwise let them give it to whomever they want," Ainslie said.

Starkweather is accused of killing 11 persons including one man in Wyoming.

Already mentioned as eligible are Joe Sprinkle, who wrestled a gun away from Starkweather shortly after Monte Collison, 37, of Great Falls, Mont., was killed near Douglas, and Maynard Behrends of Broken Bow, Neb., who reported Starkweather's car as a "suspicious" vehicle to the Nebraska Safety Patrol.

In Lincoln, Lancaster County Attorney Elmer Scheele announced that no interviews with Starkweather will be allowed — regardless of the family's wishes — until an attorney has been secured to represent the youth. The decision thereafter, Scheele said, will be up to the attorney.

The same policy now applies to Carl Fugate, Starkweather's 14-year-old girl friend, Scheele said. Carl's court-appointed attorney, John McArthur, said he does not know yet whether he will permit members of the press to interview her.

High Court Upholds Ruling In Manslaughter Change Of Plea

The State Supreme Court has upheld a ruling of the Douglas County District Court refusing permission to Robert W. Jurgenson of Omaha to change his plea to a manslaughter charge from guilty to innocent.

Jurgenson was charged in the fatal shooting last April 14 of his wife, Phyllis.

After first pleading guilty, Jurgenson asked to change his plea.

The court denied the request and sentenced Jurgenson to a 10-year term in the Nebraska Penitentiary.

In other action, the Supreme Court: Affirmed a Dawson County District Court decision denying Dale Carlson damages in his motor vehicle accident suit against R. T. Hanson.

Carlson sued for damages to his truck and trailer on grounds a truck owned by Hanson forced Carlson's truck off the road east of Cozad Oct. 8, 1955.

Affirmed a Seward County District Court decision denying the Chicago and North Western Railway a reduction in paving assessments against it imposed by the city of Seward.

The city assessed the railroad $8,692 as its share of the cost of paving a part of 10th Street in Seward. Railroad property runs along the west side of 10th Street.

The railroad paid the amount but asked for a refund of $2,446 on grounds it should not be assessed for its property along four "T" intersections involved in the paving.

'Railway Post Dismissal Old Policy'—Brown

Joe Brown, State Railway Commission member, said Friday the Commission has a long-standing policy to request the resignation of any Commission employee who files as a candidate for a commissioner's post.

Brown made the statement in answer to a charge by George McKnight, Omaha, that he had been fired from his job as Commission inspector because he filed for election to the Commission.

Brown said that when he filed as Commission secretary for the post of Commissioner Walter Roberts, who resigned in 1952, he kept his post as secretary until he was appointed to the Commission by the governor because "Roberts was not an incumbent."

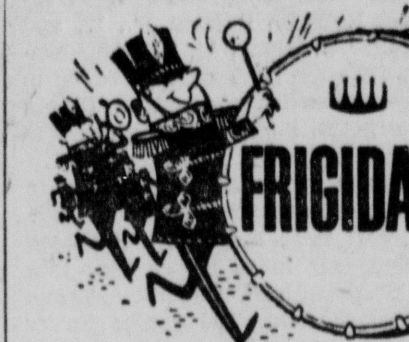

McKnight said he challenged the right of the Commission to fire him even though he had been told he would be fired if he filed for the post to which Brown is seeking re-election.

Bid Made To Connect Shirt With Jones

No Sexual Attack, Says Pathologist

OMAHA (INS)—The prosecution made its first bid Friday to directly connect George Daniel Jones Jr. with circumstantial evidence in the May 29, 1957, slaying of Mrs. Rita Kappenman.

Joseph Minix, who worked with Jones at an Omaha packinghouse, said he had seen the 32-year-old defendant wear a shirt similar to the brown and black striped sport shirt which police testified was found in a trash can behind the house where Jones lived.

Minix, under cross examination by deputy public defender Edward T. Hayes, added that he "couldn't say that he wore that particular shirt."

The prosecution reached the halfway point in its case at the close of the fifth day in the murder trial as Detective Victor A. Bockek completed his identification of a brassiere and nurse's uniform introduced into evidence by the state.

FBI Agents To Testify

Deputy County Attorney John T. Hanley said he will call two Chicago FBI agents, Bryan Mogen and Leonard Wolff, to the stand when the trial resumes Monday.

An Omaha pathologist, Dr. C. S. Moran, testified under cross examination that there was no medical evidence of a sexual attack on the body of slain Mrs. Kappenman.

Under the probing of deputy public defender Adolph Q. Wolf, Dr. Moran also admitted that a button found adhered to the shooting victim's body was listed in the autopsy report as having come from a nurse's uniform used by the fire rescue squad to shield the nearly-nude body.

Moran said he had not examined the button carefully at the time he found it during his preliminary search of the body May 29 and did not then notice a scrap of black and brown cloth attached to the button.

He said he first observed the cloth fragment eight days after the autopsy when he gave the button to Detective Sergeant Fred Bruning.

The state hopes to prove the cloth fragment matches a shirt linked to Jones.

During the lengthy cross examination the defense asked the pathologist to repeat most of his testimony concerning the bullet wound in the brain which the doctor said caused Mrs. Kappenman's death.

Earlier, Mrs. Waunita Kouba, an aunt of the murder victim, testified that she had talked to her niece on the telephone until about 8:15 a.m. on the morning of the slaying. The body was found by Keith Kappenman, the victim's husband, about 9:45 a.m.

Trooper Nabs Youths After Speedy Chase

Lincoln Star Special

FAIRFIELD, Neb. — A State Safety Patrol officer Friday captured two teenage Omahans behind a farmer's home near here after pursuing the youths at high speeds four miles over Highway 74 and then across rough wheat fields on foot.

The youths were identified by State Trooper Elvis Pesek as Albert Franklin Painter Jr., 16, and Walter T. Black, 15. The 1957 convertible the boys were traveling in was extensively damaged during the flight. Pesek said the car was taken in Omaha Thursday night.

Pesek picked up their trail on a tip from another trooper on Highway 74 near Fairfield and chased them four miles before they took a dead end side road that led into a wheat field. The youths finally left the car and were picked up behind a house.

Pesek said loot taken in three morning breakins at Tobias was found in the car along with two rifles and ammunition.

The youths are being held in the county jail at Clay Center, and will probably be turned over to Saline County officials, authorities said.

O'Neill Tax Hearing Ends In Confusion

O'NEILL, Neb. (AP)—The special hearing of Sen. Terry Carpenter's special legislative tax committee came to an abrupt and confused halt in O'Neill Friday.

When none of the 228 cattleman and ranchers Sen. Carpenter had asked to meet with the committee Friday showed up at the morning session, the Scottsbluff senator suspected a mixup.

He checked with the Lincoln office of the Legislative Council and although he was not able to determine precisely what happened, he came to the conclusion that notices had not gone out on schedule. A spot check of several persons on the list tended to confirm this so Carpenter left for home.

Sen. Carpenter said he would set a new date later.

As he wound up his activities in Holt County, Carpenter said he found tax assessment conditions better in Cherry and Holt Counties—both of which were the sites of hearings this week—than in other counties he had visited with his committee.

He also remarked that "as a result of these hearings my own county (Scotts Bluff) has picked up more than one million dollars in assessments."

As a result of the hearings, Carpenter ordered the tax commission field representative to make an audit of the books of three firms in the county.

Office Mix-Up Here Blamed

The Legislative Council office in Lincoln reported the notices were not sent out because of "just an office mix-up."

The office reported it was "up to Sen. Carpenter to set a new hearing date" but that the same farmers and ranchers would be called and that they would be given notice when the new date is set.

Sutherland NU Student Finds Desire, Determination Assets

A 19-year-old junior at the University of Nebraska has found that desire and determination overcome most obstacles.

Larry Rotert of Sutherland, Neb., is paying his own way through four years of college — aided this year by a $250 Champlin Oil Scholarship.

To pay for his expenses, the tall, red-haired youth works 20 hours a week as a bus boy, and the work hasn't affected his grades. He is maintaining a higher-than average grade with nearly a 90 per cent average.

CPA Goal

Majoring in business administration, Larry has set his goal at becoming a certified public accountant. Accounting ranks high in his list of favorite courses, but it wasn't until relatively recent times that Larry discovered his main interest lay in this area.

When he first came to the University he was "undeclared," meaning he hadn't chosen a field of study. Larry said he wasn't content to sit at home to wait until he had made up his mind. "I was afraid that I wouldn't get to college that way," he said.

He settled first on mathematics, but this failed to satisfy him. It was through working as a bookkeeper during the summer that he found accounting fascinated him most.

Active In Fraternity

Larry said that figures have always interested him. "Most people find looking at a set of figures dull, but this has never been the case with me," he said.

In addition to his studies Larry is active in his social fraternity (Sigma Alpha Epsilon) and has served as secretary and treasurer.

He is also a member of two other University organizations: Nebraska University Council on

WEATHER AHEAD

Temperatures for the next five days will average about 5 degrees above normal over Nebraska, with only minor day to day changes.

Normal afternoon highs range from the middle 30s to the middle 40s, and normal morning lows from 16 to the low 20s. Precipitation is expected to average .10 inch in northern Nebraska to .10-25 inch in the south, occurring as showers mainly Tuesday or Wednesday.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Betrothal Announced

MISS PATSY RAE WAGNER

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vreeland of Holdrege make announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Patsy Rae Wagner, to Larry Isaacson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Isaacson, also of Holdrege.

The wedding is planned for September. Miss Wagner is a senior student at the Lincoln General Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Isaacson is attending the University of Nebraska College of Engineering.

HERE IT IS — Saturday again — and a fairly busy week end is at hand — But before we tell you about a dinner dance, a party — some bridge groups and this and that, we shall pass on some news we heard which involves a potential guest.

We were told that Miss Mari Sandoz is to pay Nebraska — and Lincoln — a visit sometime in May — The date of Miss Sandoz's arrival is as yet not definite — But a date that is certain is May 19th, when Miss Sandoz new book, "The Cattlemen" will be on the book stands. Interesting, also, is the news that 7,500 words from the book are to be published in the Saturday Evening Post — probably beginning in one of the magazine's May issues.

ON the Saturday night calendar are two parties — One of them is to honor out of town guests, and the other is a dinner dance.

The guests are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yates of Evanston, Ill., who, with their son, Vance, are guests at the home of Mrs. Yates's parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Vance Traphagen.

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Yates this evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Druliner and Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kimball who will be hosts and hostesses at an hors d'oeuvres party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Druliner. Fifteen couples have been invited for the canape party, and the group will complete the evening with a no host dinner at the Lincoln Country Club.

"THE Big Record" is the theme for the Revelers Club dinner dance this evening at Hotel Cornhusker — and we hear that the members are to appear wearing a costume that suggests their favorite record —

In charge of the party plans is a committee which includes Mr. and Mrs. William Ammon, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pegler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lee Liggett, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meginnis Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Higgins.

LEARNED that Mrs. Jack Stone was a Thursday hostess at her home when she entertained the members of her bridge eight-some. The group arrived in time for lunch and devoted the afternoon to bridge.

The Star In Suburbia

Park Manor and Casino Heights combine again this morning and our news coffers are brimming as usual.

Included among the guests for the informal morning affair which is to be held at the Arpke home will be the wives of the Air Force ROTC Officers at the University of Nebraska.

W. O. and Mrs. Ball and their children, Glenn, Timmy, Kathy and Becky Sue, will be leaving Lincoln on Friday, Feb. 23, to make their new home in Montgomery, Ala., where W. O. Ball will be stationed at Maxwell Air Force Base.

The couple are to be honored on Tuesday evening at a dinner party at Tillman's Plaza for which Air Force ROTC detachment personnel and their families will be on hand.

News of bridge enthusiasts is much in evidence this morning, and we learn that Mrs. Owen Beach was hostess to the members of her bridge eight-some on Friday afternoon when she entertained at her Park Manor home.

And on Thursday, Mrs. Dean Foster entertained friends at a dessert bridge held at her home. Invited for the informal afternoon affair were Mrs. Charles Dean, Mrs. Charles Arpke, Mrs. Charles Simpson, Mrs. Clifford Pratt, Mrs. Gordon Ware, Mrs. John Hagood and Mrs. Leslie Fosterman.

CHATTER In The CORRIDOR

By BEV HOGAN

Senior and sophomore class officer elections at Lincoln Northeast were held last week. Danny Hays takes over the presidency of the senior class with Jerry Evans as vice-president. Phyllis Jelinek will serve as secretary and Pat Vincent as treasurer. Sophomores elected Keith Schmidt as head of their class and Jack Jensen will assist him. Tom Beachell will keep records and Sue Elliott will take care of their funds.

Jantina Dyksterhuis has been announced as the winner of the Elks Scholarship awarded on the basis of leadership ability shown in high school. Bonnie Bowen and Jean Hamilton tied for second place honors.

Several couples from LNE and other high schools enjoyed an evening of gliding (or was it sitting?) on the ice at one of the local ponds Sunday evening. Speaking of ice, quite a few Northerners were seen viewing the Ice Capades.

A note of interest to those who enjoy dancing to the latest music — Another of the record hops will be held at the Pershing Memorial auditorium the evening of March 2. Besides dancing there will be live entertainment, which I hear is going to be great. On the sports scene there has been much activity and excitement. We are extremely proud of our basketball team which has been doing a real great job of keeping their No. 1 position in the state.

Our tankmen competed in the Mid-East and also the intercity swim meets recently. Although we placed last in both meets, there were several fine showings especially by Doug Wilson, Larry Ferrell, and Jerry Peterson. They complete their season today participating in the state contest at the PSAB.

The gymnasts captured the Mid-East trophy, winning over Hastings, Beatrice and Lincoln Southeast. They also topped Omaha Benson 72-40 in a regular meet Tuesday.

Barry Moore, new to LNE this year, has been named as the varsity baseball coach, succeeding R. L. Johnson, who has resigned to accept a university position. Baseball begins soon which must surely mean that spring is just around the corner — Let's hope it's a short corner. By the way, don't forget to get your ticket for the play which will be Feb. 28, at 8 o'clock in the LNE auditorium.

Candlelight Service

MRS. BRUCE C. BURNHAM

The altar of the First Christian Church in Springfield, Ill., was decorated with white pom-pom chrysanthemums and white and lavender stock for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Yates, Yates of Springfield, and the late Mr. Yates, and Bruce C. Burnham, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Burnham of Lincoln. The Rev. Beryl Kinser read the lines of the candlelight service on Saturday evening, Feb. 15, in the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends. Mrs. John Nolan, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied Edin Nicholas, the vocal soloist.

The matron of honor and bride's only attendant was Mrs. R. C. Yates of Virginia, Ill., who appeared in a ballerina frock of lavender net over taffeta. She carried a colonial bouquet of white, feathered carnations. Serving as best man was R. C. Yates of Virginia, Ill., and seating the guests were James Davis and Charles Brown, both of Springfield.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white lace smoothed over taffeta. The fitted, strapless bodice was covered by a brief jacket of the lace designed with a Peter Pan collar and three-quarter sleeves, and below the slim waist, the skirt flared into after-five length. Her short veil of illusion was held by a lace pill-box cap sprinkled with iridescent sequins, and she carried a rounded bouquet of white feathered carnations.

Immediately following the 6:30 o'clock ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The couple will reside in Springfield.

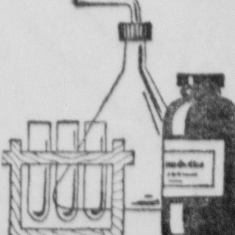

The bride has attended the Gem City Business College, Quincy, Ill., and Brown's Business College in Springfield, and Mr. Burnham is a former student at the University of Nebraska.

The Commission also approved a project of work on the Sacramento Public Hunting area near Holdrege and approved the purchase of a new airplane for enforcement and survey work.

Possible legislation involving game and fish matters that may come up in the next State Legislature session was also discussed, but no decisions made.

Scottsbluff Doctor 1st 4-Sport Husker

... Versatile Cornhusker Sparkled In 1915-16-17

SCOTTSBLUFF — Dr. Ted E. Riddell, who has practiced his profession here since 1923 and has become one of the North Platte Valley's leading physicians and surgeons, was the first University of Nebraska athlete to earn letters in four major sports.

Dr. Riddell won letters in football, basketball, track and baseball back in the school years of 1915, 1916, and 1917.

Only one other Cornhusker athlete has accomplished the feat a check of records reveals. He is Elmer Dohrmann, who accomplished the feat some 20 years after Dr. Riddell had written his name in Cornhusker athletic history.

The Scottsbluff physician and surgeon played with Nebraska's great Guy Chamberlain. Dr. Riddell played one end and Chamberlain the other.

Dr. Riddell recalled his work as a Cornhusker with great pleasure as he sat in his office in the Scottsbluff Clinic. He remembers Nebraska greats with whom he played football such as Rutherford, Tim Corey, Ellsworth Moser, Humpy Campbell, and Abbott and Shields, who played guard.

Mike Seizer and John Cook, both of Scottsbluff, were on Cornhusker football squads with Dr. Riddell and they have great times reminiscing about "those good old days."

Patterson's Proposed Ring Foe Stopped With 13th Round TKO

GOTEBORG, Sweden (P)—Ingemar Johansson, Sweden's undefeated European heavyweight champion, Friday ruined Joe Erskine's hopes for a world title fight by scoring a 13-round technical knockout over the bleeding Welshman.

Erskine's seconds tossed in the towel at the end of the 13th round of the scheduled 15-round title contest after the husky Swede had piled up a huge lead. The 5,500 fans who packed the fair hall raised the rafters with cheers when Johansson's arm was raised in triumph by Referee Herbert Tomser of West Germany.

It was the 19th victory in as many pro fights for the 6-foot, 1-inch Swede. He weighed 197 pounds, three ounces, to Erskine's 198 pounds, three ounces.

Erskine, the British Empire champion from Cardiff, Wales, had been promised a shot at American Floyd Patterson's world crown in London this June if he could upset the favored Johansson.

But after a dull first round, Johansson quickly took command. He had Erskine in trouble near the end of the second round when he smashed the challenger to the ropes with a barrage of lefts and rights to the head.

In the seventh and eighth, the Swede again had Erskine in difficulty. While the invader relied mainly on his jabbing left, Johansson smashed away with both hands, scoring to both the body and head. Erskine was cut over the left eye in the eighth round and blood trickled from the gash the rest of the way. Johansson had Erskine in dire straits in the 11th, 12th and 13th rounds. He relentlessly pressed his shorter rival to the ropes and pounded him with both hands.

The Associated Press gave Johansson 10 rounds and called three — the first, fourth and fifth—even.

There were no knockdowns although both slipped to the floor several times.

It was the second defeat for the 24-year-old Erskine who has won 32. He was knocked out in the first round by Cuba's Nino Valdes in London, Feb. 19, 1957.

Johansson, 25, has not shown any great desire to meet Patterson. His manager, Edwin Ahlquist, said he thought it would be better for Johansson to wait until 1959 before bidding for a world title shot.

London Fight Still Planned

NEW YORK (P)—Floyd Patterson's manager said Friday he still expected to go through with his agreement to have the world heavyweight champion box in London.

"I'll continue to believe a fight will take place," said D'Amato when informed Joe Erskine, who was to have fought Patterson if he beat Ingemar Johansson, had been stopped in 13 rounds by the Swede.

"I will leave it up to the promoter (Harry Levene) to talk about the opponent. I do not believe he will comment upon that matter until my arrival in London."

Ford, who was sidelined with a sore shoulder for two months last season, manager to win 11 games. He lost five and posted a 2.58 earned run average. Whitey also has the best lifetime record among active major league pitchers with a 91-33 mark for a .734.

YANKEE MOUND ACE OKS PACT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (P)—Ed (Whitey) Ford, ace of the New York Yankees' pitching staff, Friday signed his 1958 contract.

The 29-year-old lefthander came to terms after a conference with Lee MacPhail, assistant to general manager George Weiss.

Ford, who was sidelined with a sore shoulder for two months last season, manager to win 11 games. He lost five and posted a 2.58 earned run average. Whitey also has the best lifetime record among active major league pitchers with a 91-33 mark for a .734.

Unassisted Goals Boost Culbertson's To 4-4 Tie With St. Paul Capitals

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Two unassisted goals in the last six minutes enabled the St. Louis Park Culbertson's to tie the St. Paul Capitals, 4-4, Friday night at Pershing Memorial Auditorium.

The two Central Hockey League entries will meet again Saturday night, with the game starting at 8 p.m. A preliminary game between the Lincoln AFB Blue Jets and the Duluth, Minn., Delta Daggers will start at 6:15 p.m. Duluth won, 4-2, Friday night.

Most of the scoring Friday night was packed into the third period. Trailing, 2-1, the Culbertsons evened the count for the first time with 19:14 left when John McKinnon, assisted by his brother, Paul, drilled a shot past Capitol goalie John Sheehan.

Two minutes later John Herzog put St. Paul in front again and at 6:06 the Capitals stretched the margin to 4-2 with an unassisted goal by Ben Maloney.

But the Culbertson's, coached by league prexy Walter Bush, narrowed the gap at 5:39 on Ben Swanson's solo shot. Dave Rodda, who got the first Culbertson goal, guaranteed the tie two minutes later with an unassisted shot after Sheehan was blocked out of position.

Sidelights . . . Sheehan was the busiest goalie of the night, stopping 52 shots. Culbertson goalie, Ed Schiller, had 46 saves . . . Auditorium manager Don Jewell indicated Friday night that some outstanding sports shows are on the upcoming agenda. The National Basketball Association (NBA) All Star tour is slated for April and there's a good chance Jack Kramer's pro tennis group, featuring Lew Hoad and Pancho Gonzales, will be here on May 20.

Big Ten Playoff Set

Scottsbluff will play at Hastings March 1 in the playoff game for the Big 10 Conference championship. Hastings is the East division winner, while Scottsbluff is the West representative both with 7-1 loop records.

Wesleyan Cagers Could Wreck Hastings' Bid

Nebraska Wesleyan University and Hastings college-friendly but intense athletic rivals for more than half a century—will resume their ancient basketball rivalry in Ira J. Taylor physical education building here Saturday night.

OSBORNE . . . NCC ace.

Game time for the Nebraska College Conference basketball contest is 7:30. Up until a week ago, Coach Irvin Peterson's Plainsmen were very much in the thick of the current NCC championship chase. But that was before home contests with Midland and Peru State.

The Plainsmen were guilty of both offensive and defensive lapses in each of these contests which saw the opposition come on strong in the late stages to overcome Wesleyan leads and to win on last second field goals.

So the most the Wesleyan five can do Saturday night is to serve as a wrecking crew against the championship hopes of Coach Russ Bogue's talented five.

And these hopes were rudely jolted last weekend when the high-flying Chadron State Eagles bounced back from a pair of losses to Peru, to whip the Broncos twice in a series at Chadron.

Peterson is expected to stick with the starting five that threatened to carry his Plainsmen into championship contention including Lefty Hixson, Dick Evenson, Arvid Barsner, Rod Felix and Bob Eberspacher.

Hixson and Felix will be making their final home start in Wesleyan gear.

Tom Osborne, Tom Pawloski, Harold Shaw, Bob Hansen and Mort Fuller are expected to carry the most weight for the veteran Bronco squad.

Boat Seized
CAIRO (AP)—An Egyptian spokesman said Sudanese have seized an Egyptian boat and two barges on the Nile in an area north of Wadi Halfa.

Wadi Halfa is a village of about 12,000 in the Sudan just south of the Egyptian border.

The Sudanese earlier had claimed the boat was carrying light automatic weapons and its passengers were military personnel in disguise.

Education Of 'Trainable' Children 'Not Obligatory'
... Attorney General Says
School districts are not obligated for the education of "trainable" children—those with IQ's ranging from 30 to 50—according to a Nebraska attorney general's office ruling.

The opinion was requested by Education Commissioner Freeman Decker who said he had made the same decision earlier and that his ruling had been challenged.

The issue involved a specific problem in one Nebraska school district, Decker said.

The attorney general's office opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Gerald Vitmas, stated that the Legislature has maintained that compulsory education laws "do not apply to those children who are mentally incapacitated for the work done in the regular schools" and that a "trainable" child "cannot benefit from regular school attendance." Therefore, the opinion added, the local school district is not obligated in any way for the education or training of such a child.

The opinion also mentioned the Board of Control authorization to establish two or more schools for mentally-retarded children, including "trainable" children.

The Board has requested an opinion on the legality of using $80,000 appropriated for construction of such schools for use in renting and renovating a building for the proposed institution.

A study to determine where the majority of the state's mentally retarded children reside is now underway by the Board.

Lincoln Duo In Contest On Freedom
Sister Gregory and 11-year-old Judy Dalka will represent Holy Family Parochial School at the annual Freedom Foundation contest at Valley Forge, Pa.

Holy Family, named one of the top 10 schools participating in the national Freedom Foundation contest, was one of two schools selected from the Midwest.

Sister Gregory is the sixth-grade teacher at Holy Family and Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dalka, 3402 So. 38th, is one of her pupils. They left Friday morning by plane.

The contest is designed to recognize outstanding American citizens, organizations and schools. Over $100,000 in prize money will be awarded to winners.

See Landmarks
While at Valley Forge, Sister Gregory and Judy will visit famous landmarks and battlefields of the historic campaign, then travel by car with representatives of the other nine top schools to Washington, D.C., before returning to Lincoln Tuesday night.

While in Washington, they will visit the Capitol, the FBI building, attend a Senate session and have lunch with Nebraska congressional representatives.

Holy Family's winning entry was titled "Of Thee We Sing." It was an essay featuring students' interpretations of American freedoms embodied in the Declaration of Independence, the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Last year, Holy Family students won a collection of history books for their entry, "Our American Heritage."

The issue involved a specific problem in one Nebraska school district, Decker said.

The attorney general's office opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Gerald Vitmas, stated that the Legislature has maintained that compulsory education laws "do not apply to those children who are mentally incapacitated for the work done in the regular schools" and that a "trainable" child "cannot benefit from regular school attendance." Therefore, the opinion added, the local school district is not obligated in any way for the education or training of such a child.

The opinion also mentioned the Board of Control authorization to establish two or more schools for mentally-retarded children, including "trainable" children.

The Board has requested an opinion on the legality of using $80,000 appropriated for construction of such schools for use in renting and renovating a building for the proposed institution.

A study to determine where the majority of the state's mentally retarded children reside is now underway by the Board.

Retail Merchants To Draft Bill Governing Credit Practices

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Representatives of the Retail Merchants Association of Nebraska Friday told a legislative committee they would draft a bill to be considered as the basis for proposed legislation governing retail credit practices in the state.

Members of the legislative committee on installment loans and retail credit practices asked the retail representatives to take such action following a day-long hearing at the Statehouse.

John Henry, manager of the Omaha Better Business Bureau, suggested that such legislation should include three requirements:

1. A complete breakdown of charges retailers make for credit purchases.
2. A ceiling on rates the retailer may charge.
3. A guaranteed rebate for those customers who complete their payments prior to the contractual time period.

Need Questioned

However, the Omaha said, "I don't think there's any need for a law."

The general sentiment among the retailers testifying before the committee was that regular business competition would prevent rates from getting out of hand.

The committee was told that average charges on revolving credit accounts over the nation ranged from 1 to 1½ per cent each month on the unpaid balance.

Jim Sanden, of the Lincoln Better Business Bureau, said rates in Lincoln range from "three-quarters of one per cent to one and one-half per cent" each month on the unpaid balance.

Sanden said Lincoln businesses using revolving credit plans now "make a complete disclosure" to customers of their credit charges.

Very Few Complaints

Both Sanden and Henry said they have very few complaints about revolving credit plans.

Sanden also declared he finds "businesses more ethical than the public" concerning credit practices.

Committee member Sen. Fred Waggoner of Lincoln declared it is the job of the Legislature to "protect the public" and commented he thought "merchants are somewhat to blame for making credit too easy."

John Freedland of Columbus, president of the Retail Merchants Association of Nebraska, told the committee that retailers have been forced to sponsor revolving credit accounts due to the "radical changes in methods of retail selling during the last 25 years."

He suggested that the committee should keep in mind the difference between revolving credit accounts and installment buying.

Credit Described

Revolving credit accounts were described as credit practices which allow customers to charge merchandise up to a certain amount each month, and installment credit means dividing the purchase price of a given article over equal monthly payments.

Another Association representative, Dean Campbell of Fairbury, said the committee should not regard charges on revolving credit accounts as interest rates, but rather as service charges—"the same type of service a retailer gives in delivering to the customer's home."

Norris Swan of Hastings, also representing the Association, declared that merchants "do not want to get into the money-borrowing and money-lending business."

He said retailers have gone into revolving credit and installment buying because "all walks of life have indicated a preference for this."

$43 Billion

Dr. Robert H. Cole, professor of business administration at the University of Nebraska, told the committee that the nation now does credit buying at the rate of $43 billion, of which $16 billion is for the credit purchase of automobiles.

He said only the state of New York has legislation covering the amount of interest which can be charged on revolving credit.

Sen. Mervin Bedford of Geneva, chairman of the committee, said the next hearing will be on automobile credit practices and discount houses which purchase time sales paper.

He said the hearing will be held in Lincoln some time next month.

Other committee members present included Sens. Charles Tyrdik of Omaha and Arthur W. Swanson of Holdrege.

Nelson Seeks Court Reversal In Auto Case

Attorneys for James H. Nelson asked the Supreme Court to reverse the decision of the Adams County District Court in a case involving financing of an automobile.

Nelson brought the suit against the General Credit Corp. and People's Loan Co., both of Hastings.

He contended that a financial transaction with the General Credit Corp. had been a loan, subject to usury statutes, rather than a time sales contract.

The district court found for the finance firms.

Glad To Have Reilly See Deaf School—Vic

Gov. Victor Anderson said Friday he told Sen. Charles Tyrdik of Omaha that the Board of Control would be glad to take Robert T. Reilly and representatives of the press through the Nebraska School for the Deaf at Omaha.

Reilly is the spokesman for an Omaha group which has protested the operations of the deaf school, particularly its teaching methods. He had asked Sen. Tyrdik to assist the Omaha group in obtaining an open hearing on the school.

Following his conference with Tyrdik, Gov. Anderson said it has always been his policy to have "an open door" in regard to the operation of state institutions, and that the state "has absolutely nothing to hide."

The governor said that if Reilly makes a tour of the school with members of the press, "he will have an opportunity to point out any deficiencies he thinks are located there."

Anderson said the Board of Control would like to have all of the state senators make the inspection tour, which the Board would make at Reilly's convenience.

He said Sen. Tyrdik said he would convey the invitation to Reilly.

30 Testify For Fairbury Man At Hearing

Approximately 30 witnesses appeared at a license revocation hearing to testify on behalf of Harold Byron Applegate, Fairbury chiropractor.

The attorney general has charged Applegate with unprofessional conduct in using "exaggerated claims concerning his professional excellence and abilities in advertisements."

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state Health Department director, said Applegate, represented at the hearing by Charles Phillips, Lincoln attorney, contended he had never intended to make any statements concerning his professional abilities in newspaper advertisements.

Dr. Rogers said Applegate testified that if a New Year's greeting to friends, published in a newspaper, gave the impression he was praising his own abilities, it was only because of typographical errors in the printing of the greetings.

Dr. Rogers and Phillips agreed not to delve into the meaning of what exactly constitutes flamboyant advertising.

State law requires Dr. Rogers to make a decision within ten days. He said he would either decide for license revocation, license suspension for a certain period, or dismissal of the attorney general's charges.

Dr. Rogers also said either Applegate or the state may then appeal the case to Lancaster District Court within 30 days after his decision.

Homer Kyle, assistant attorney general, represented the state at the hearings.

Mental School Fund Usage Ruling Made

The attorney general has held that the State Board of Control may not purchase a building with funds appropriated for construction of a school for mentally retarded children, but may use the funds for renting and renovating a building for the proposed school.

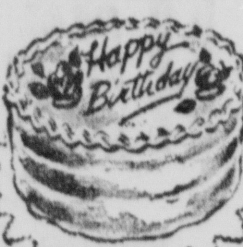

Mrs. Catherine Martin, state Board of Control chairman, said she requested the opinion on the legality of using $80,000, appropriated by the last session of the legislature for establishing one or more approved residential schools for mentally retarded children, to rent or renovate a building for the proposed institution.

However, the attorney general said he would have to examine "any arrangements" if it were contemplated to use the appropriated funds to remodel facilities "that might be provided by some other organization or group of interested people" as a site for the proposed school.

He said statutes provide that any gifts available to the state for any purpose shall be allocated to the state agency designated by the donor provided "no matching of state funds is required as a condition to accept any gift or bequest."
